The eKidsFirst.org Online Parenting Class was designed for individuals who need to take a parenting course for a court order, as part of a custody agreement, other legal or probationary reasons, or simply to improve parenting skills for personal growth. The online parenting classes were designed by Ari Novick, Ph.D, who is a licensed Marriage and Family Therapist and an expert in anger management and family relationships. Dr. Novick is a probation and court approved parenting class provider as well as an anger management provider. Most recently, Dr. Novick developed the online parenting class to meet the need for parents who need to take a parenting class but have difficulty either attending a live class or simply would like a more relaxed, self-paced atmosphere. Dr. Novick has made numerous presentations on the subjects of anger management, blended families, parenting, stress management, and empathy. He has been a consultant for both Discovery Channel and Fox Television. Dr. Novick is also a corporate consultant and conducts workshops and seminars for corporations in both the public and private sectors.
